

B: both in-plane pole components govern alignment; the normal component does not

